Engineering

In 2002 IRWING Engineering acquired a steel fabrication Company that manufactured products for the automotive towing industry.

The piggy back Tow Dolly and Flat bed tilt trailer have since been serving the automotive towing professional without fail. The company was approached by the automobile association of SA to assist in the development of advanced driver training bolt on device that allows the vehicle operator to experience an out of control vehicle as well as assist in the development of their fleet of imported break down trucks.

Through the years the company has embarked on many different fabrication and design ideas including developing and manufacturing of the stainless steel, seal support ring used by the rand water board for water supply pipe maintenance.

IRWING Engineering now offers a wide range of buckets that serve the earth moving community
IRWING Engineering has also been involved in the design and manufacture of earth moving equipment.
